

The Nash Detective Agency was founded by two graduates of the Westchester Academy in New York. They are peak humans with minor mystical powers. Upon graduating the Academy, they underwent plastic surgery and adopted new names arranged by the Academy. Their cover identity is as former low level government contractors for a private military security company. In their fictitious history, they are divorced but still close friends and opened a NYC detective agency. Besides traditional cases, they can also use the private detective cover when doing contracted missions for various shadow entities including MI6, CIA, Interpol, etc. After a year of astounding success they joined with other detectives whom they encouraged/subsidized to move into the building. They hired more employees and changed the name to Nash and Associates, often referring cases to the other agencies.

They both have mystical tattoos which give them their powers

Powers :	Regeneration	1 pt per Round	Linguistics	*
	Disrupt Necromancy	30	Callings	**
	Sleep Inducement / Touch	20	Disguise	20

* They have a magical ability to learn new languages becoming fluent in mere weeks

** An unknown force sends them whispered commands which often lead them to bizarre adventures. Example : Passing someone on the street, they might hear “Follow him”

Leo often uses a beard and wig as a disguise. Given time, he will actually grow his beard out. A side effect of his regeneration is the fact that he needs to shave multiple times per day.

Another optional effect of the Tattoos is Nemesis Projection. On the full and new moons, their souls can leave their bodies and possess another person elsewhere in time, space and dimension. While only a few hours might pass for their bodies until they awaken, they can spend weeks, months or even years possessing their host. So, one adventure the two might awaken in the bodies of gunfighters in the old west. In another, they may be possessing a superhuman in a Marvel or DC Universe™. A side effect, is that their strength and endurance gain +1 CS from that normally possessed by their host. They instantly know (and retain) the language or languages known by their hosts - and speak in their normal manner.
